

The state of AI in procurement

Key statistics and insights from our 2025 report

72%

of procurement professionals say pressures on their function have increased in the past year

40% of leaders are concerned AI will cause procurement to focus too much on cost savings over strategic value.

30%

Reported productivity gains

27%

Pointed to more effective strategic planning

27%

Cited time savings across processes

35%

of leaders prioritise procurement and supply chain management function as area for AI investment and growth of procurement professionals report AI automations increase time to focus on high-value activities

88%

